Assignment 1
Jason Ajmo

In this assignment, we were tasked with following Google's Android development tutorial to create a Hello World application. The application consisted of two activities. The first accepted user input, and the second received the user's input from the first activity and displayed it on the screen.

We also added a back button to allow the user to go back and input more text.

The enclosed application was tested on my Samsung Galaxy S7. The file 'app.mp4' shows a brief demo of the application running. The video was recorded using adb, and demonstrates basic functionality, and when the user doesn't provide input. It also shows the back button being functional.

Assignment Source: https://developer.android.com/training/basics/firstapp/index.html